We watch and wait

After an exhausting day at school, these two students stand a moment in the third floor window-landing to reflect on the events of the day.

in '68

There was a special undercurrent added to the mood of Pendleton High School this year—an undercurrent that began with the first spade of dirt overturned at the groundbreaking for our new school.

Since then, this undercurrent has flowed subtly from student to student, to become a part of the daily pace at P.H.S. This new tone—this new feeling, is the anticipation, the excitement, the enthusiasm, and the impatience all of us at P.H.S. have experienced at one time or another as construction workers began to assemble block, mortar, and steel into the form of our new school.

Even as those underclassmen who will be attending this center anxiously await its completion, the upperclassmen are eagerly watching construction progress, knowing that it will indirectly affect them through the generations it helps to better educate.

As we watch each phase completed, we become intrigued by the fact that each part is blending into a harmonious unit. And, as all the parts will gradually become fitted into place, our waiting will become more intense.

This book is the story of our year of study, understanding, misunderstanding, success, defeat, sorrow, and delight. It is the story of 1968.....our year of watching and waiting.

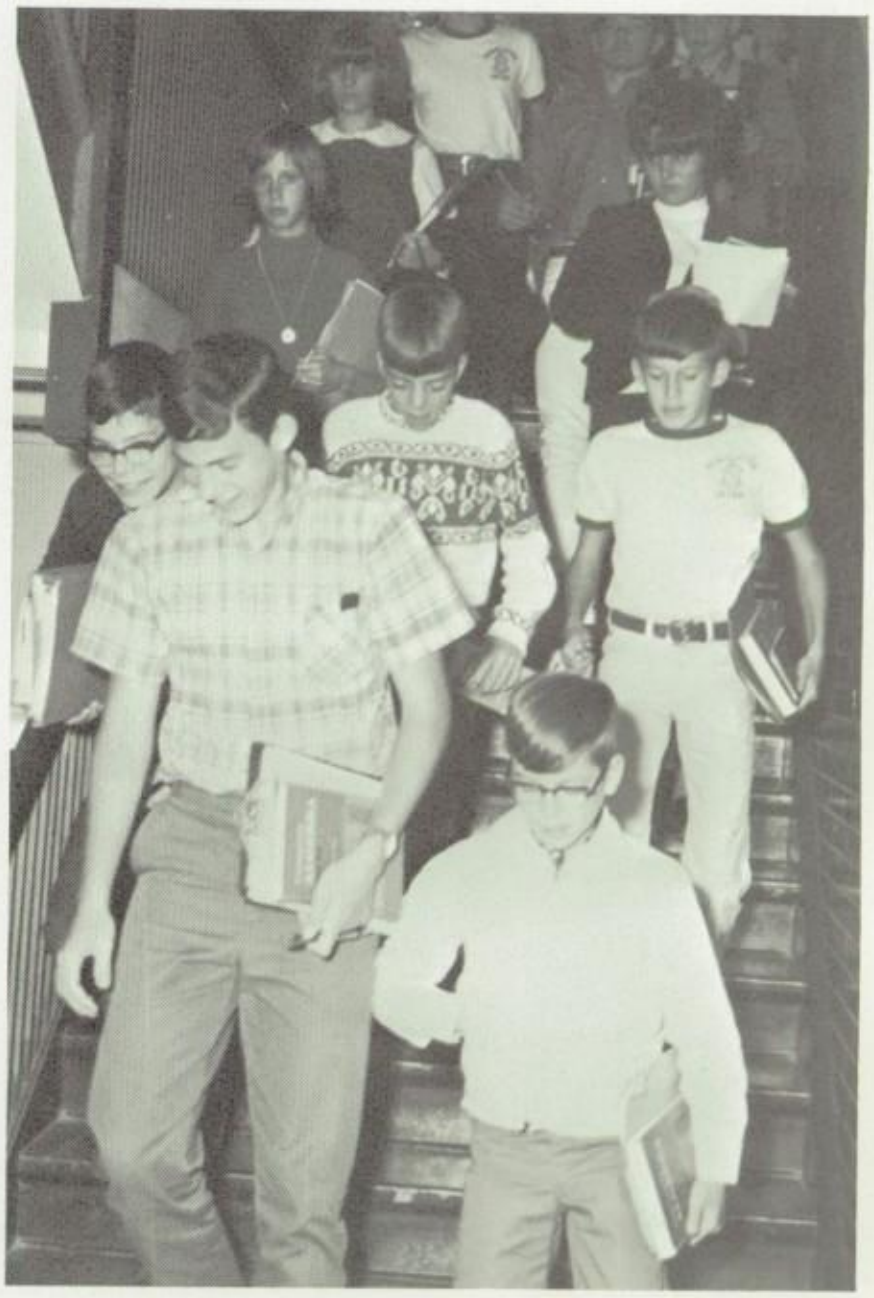
Bill Rock finds that studying under a tree is a pleasant way to cope with participles and infinitives.



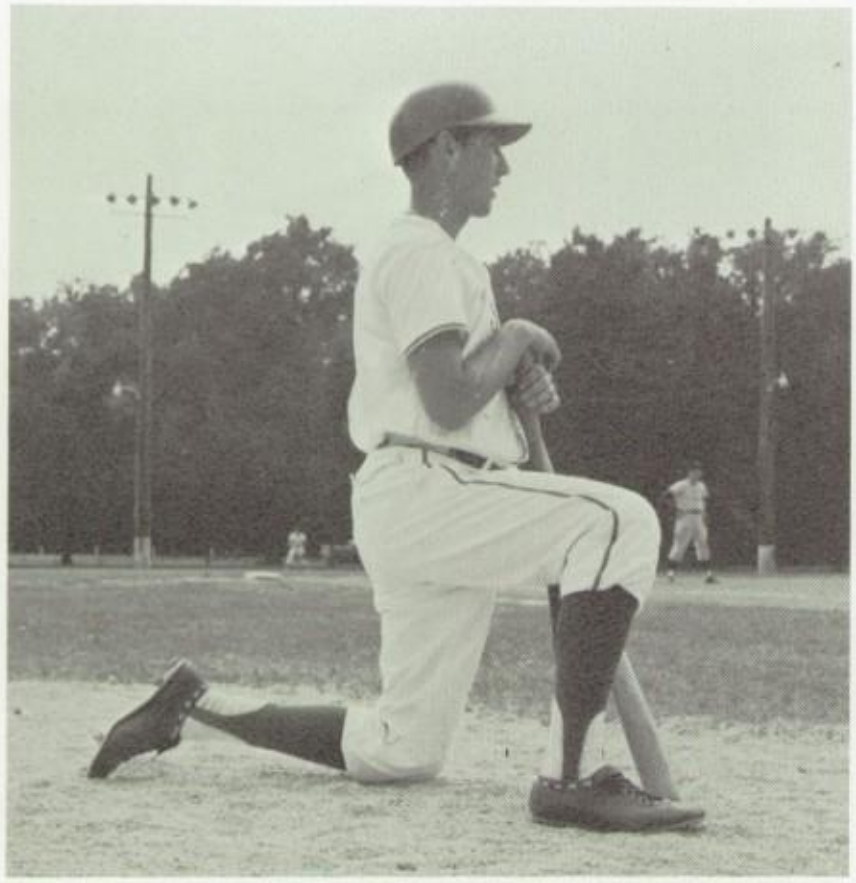
No one can mistake the "School's out!" sound—the roar of thundering feet on the stairways and the clang of slamming locker doors in the halls.

Sharp P.H.S. students keep on the watch

A feminine hand, modeling a class of '69 ring, prepares to open the door of learning.

Several underclassmen, noting an area of the school which needs improvement, take advantage of the Suggestion Locker to express their ideas.

for wider doors to opportunity



Waiting for his chance at bat, Rick Ormes ponders the actions of the other players.

Many students discover that they enjoy the relaxed, informal atmosphere of a summer school class.

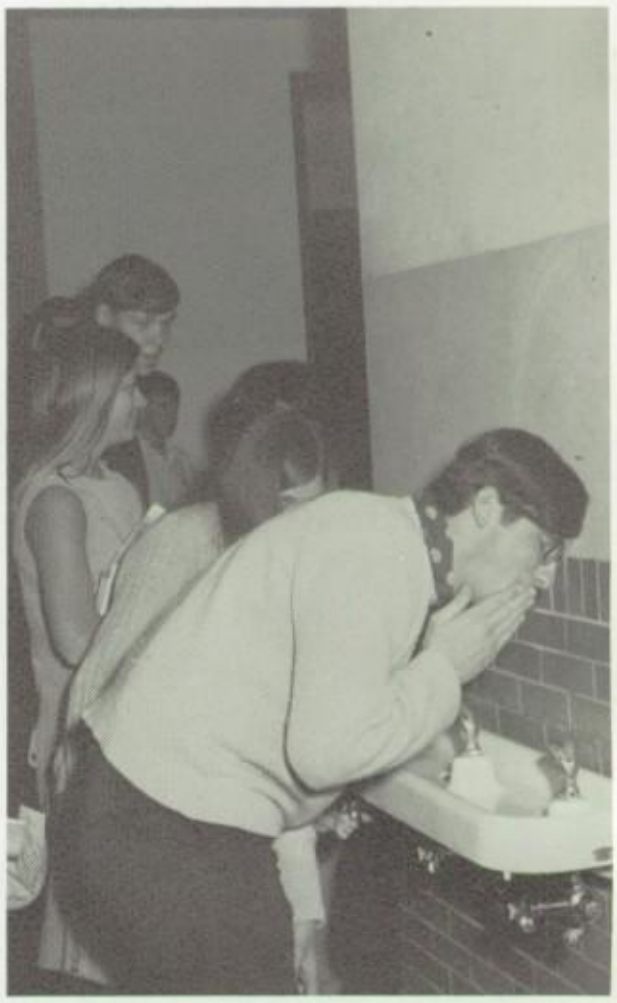
The 1967-1968 school year has been a forward-moving year; it has been a year of many firsts. The first Homecoming and home football game were held October 30 at Madison Heights. The High School gymnasium received an elegant touch when carpeting and new doors were installed. Expansionwise, three new classrooms were added to the school by partitioning the cafeteria and the Junior High Gymnasium. The Latin Club sponsored its first Saturnalia party. The traditional Prom Banquet was separated from the Ball because of the growing size of the Junior and Senior classes. All of this year's "firsts" were important, and all contributed to the welfare, enjoyment, and life of the school.

that good things sometimes take time

Most students are true clock-watchers at heart, but Bert Heiman, Phyllis Jones, Claudia Runyon, Mindy Shaw, and Jim Miller go a little overboard as they wish for 3:10.



A stand in line at the water fountain is inevitable during one of the five-minute breaks.

Hardly resembling her usual appearance, Diana Wynant, as the nurse in "Antigone," nervously awaits curtain time.

Enthusiastically breaking ground for the new school, Mr. Everett Foust, president of the South Madison Community School Building Corporation, Mr. Harold Smith, superintendent of schools, and Mr. Marion Morris, president of the School Board, prepare to toss their shovels of earth.

Debbie Crosley drops a suggestion in the box for the "Name the School Contests."

Construction workers complete details of the first stage of building.

Despite all the distractions, the work of the school must go on.

Two schools on their hands - old and new School "boards" are of two kinds—the inanimate, which physically support a structure, and the animate, who intellectually mold and direct the school.

Winter snow transforms familiar objects and scenes into unique and unusual patterns.

Superintendent Harold Smith surveys some blue prints for the new school.

The work of co-ordinating the activities of the various schools and committees in the system requires much time and organizational ability. Mr. Harold Smith, as superintendent of the South Madison Community School Corporation, accomplishes this goal quite effectively. Associated with Pendleton for eight years, Mr. Smith has become acquainted with the educational needs and wishes of the community through contact with an alert Board of Education. Their attitude of cooperation and their want for a better school system has "improved the general atmosphere of the school and has secured a better quality curriculum for students."

The next voice you hear will be that of Mr. James Crosley, assistant principal, who makes the daily announcements.

Mrs. Croxton and Mr. Hoover emphasize a special point while counseling this senior on college matters.

Dedicated principals assure progress

Participation in all phases of education and in a wide number of educational committees enables Mr. Ernest Miller, principal of Pendleton High School, to thoroughly understand the changing trends of modern education.

Mr. Miller has just completed a three-year term as a member of the College Entrance Examination Board, and was recently appointed to the Advisory Board of the International Student Exchange. He has been active on the school evaluation teams of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, and is involved with many other educational organizations.

Mr. Miller's basic educational philosophy includes his belief that teachers "should recognize and make provision for individual differences resulting from varying backgrounds, interest, aptitudes, abilities, and needs," and that "school should develop critical thinking, encourage creativity, and stimulate initiative." Eight years at Pendleton have served as adequate preparation for the principalship of the new consolidated high school, a position which Mr. Miller now holds.

Mr. Miller has been very fortunate in having as assistant principal Mr. James Crosley, who keeps all attendance and permanent records. In addition he assists with discipline, class schedules, and curriculum. Mr. Crosley also has charge of ticket sales to all athletic events. He will be vice principal of the new school, in charge of extra-curricular activities including athletics.

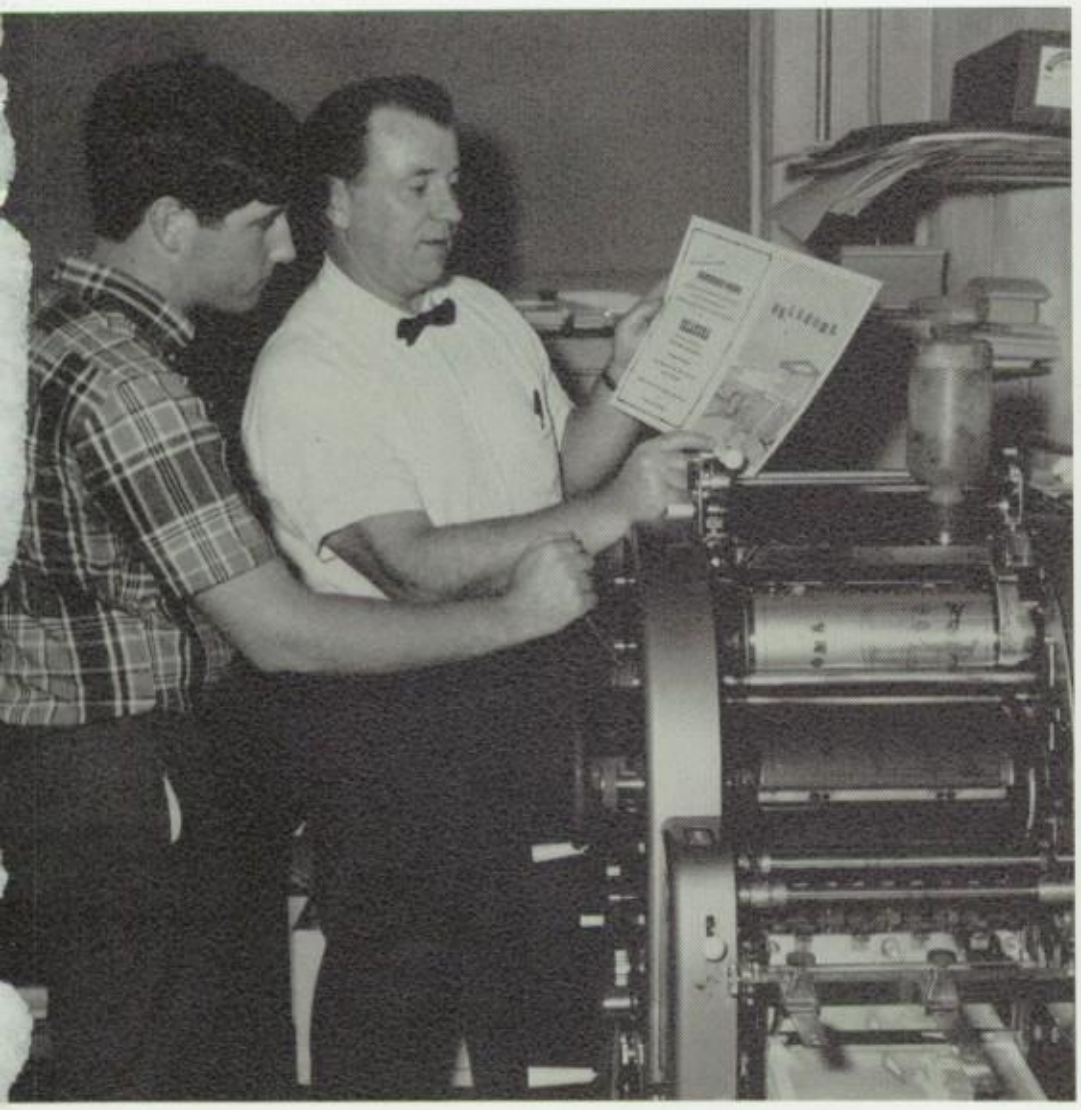
Secretaries work for efficiency

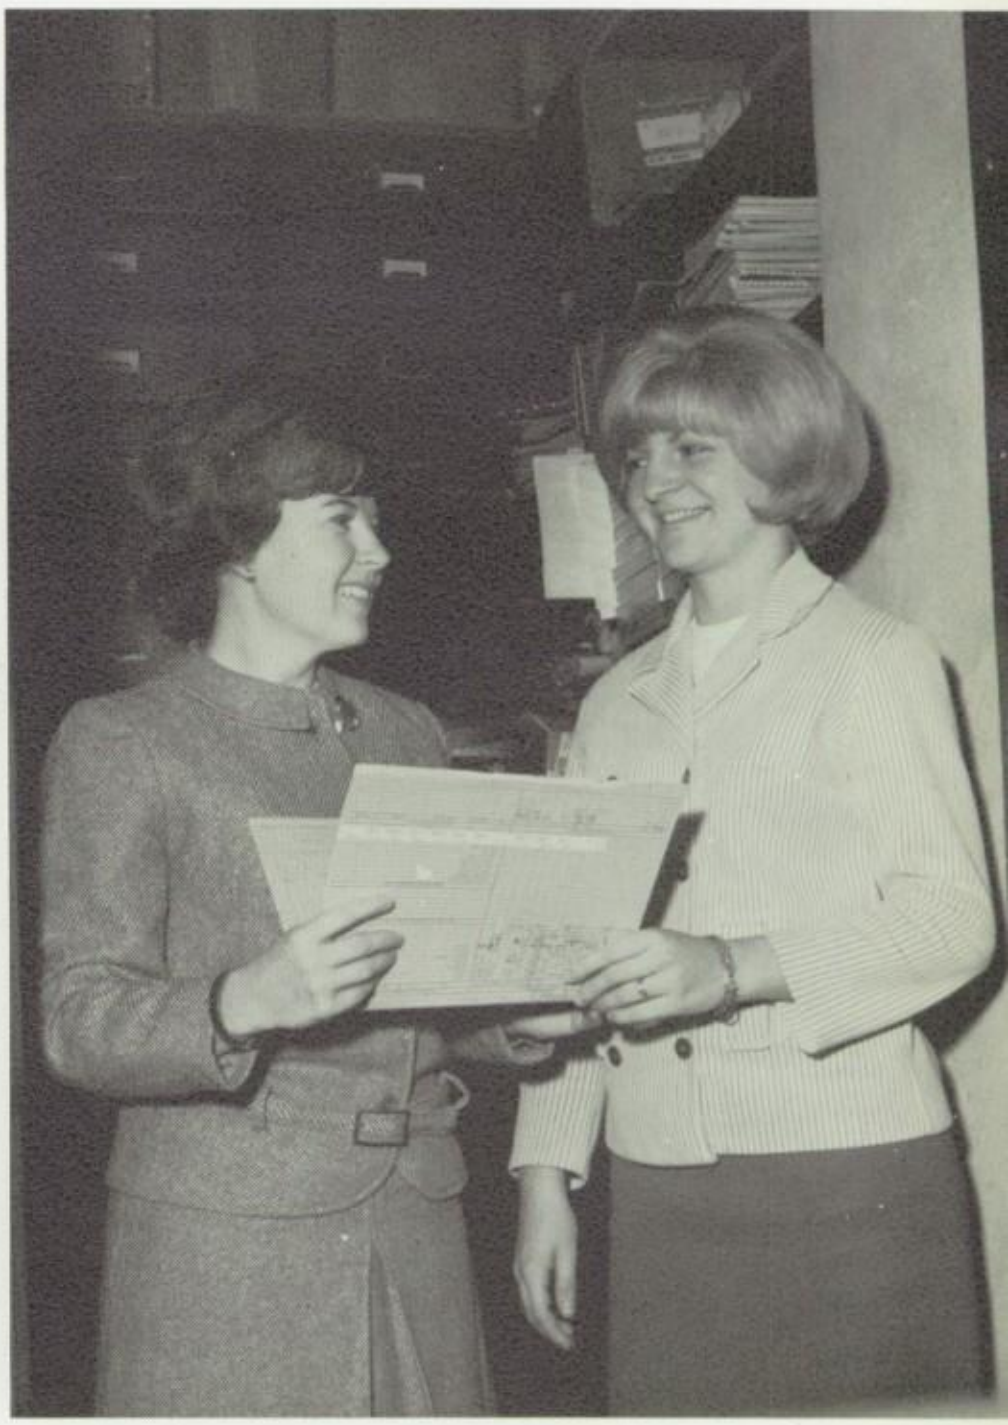
School secretaries help to keep schools running smoothly by performing office procedures such as filing records, keeping books and business forms straight, making appointments for school officials, and acting as receptionists. Through their diligent efforts the administrators, faculty, student body, parents, and community are able to work hand in hand in forming a well-balanced school system.

Mr. Rankin prints all of the programs and tickets for school activities such as special convocations, plays, band and choral concerts, baccalaureate, and commencement.

SEATED: Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Haner. STANDING: Mrs. Mellinger, Mrs. Schorre



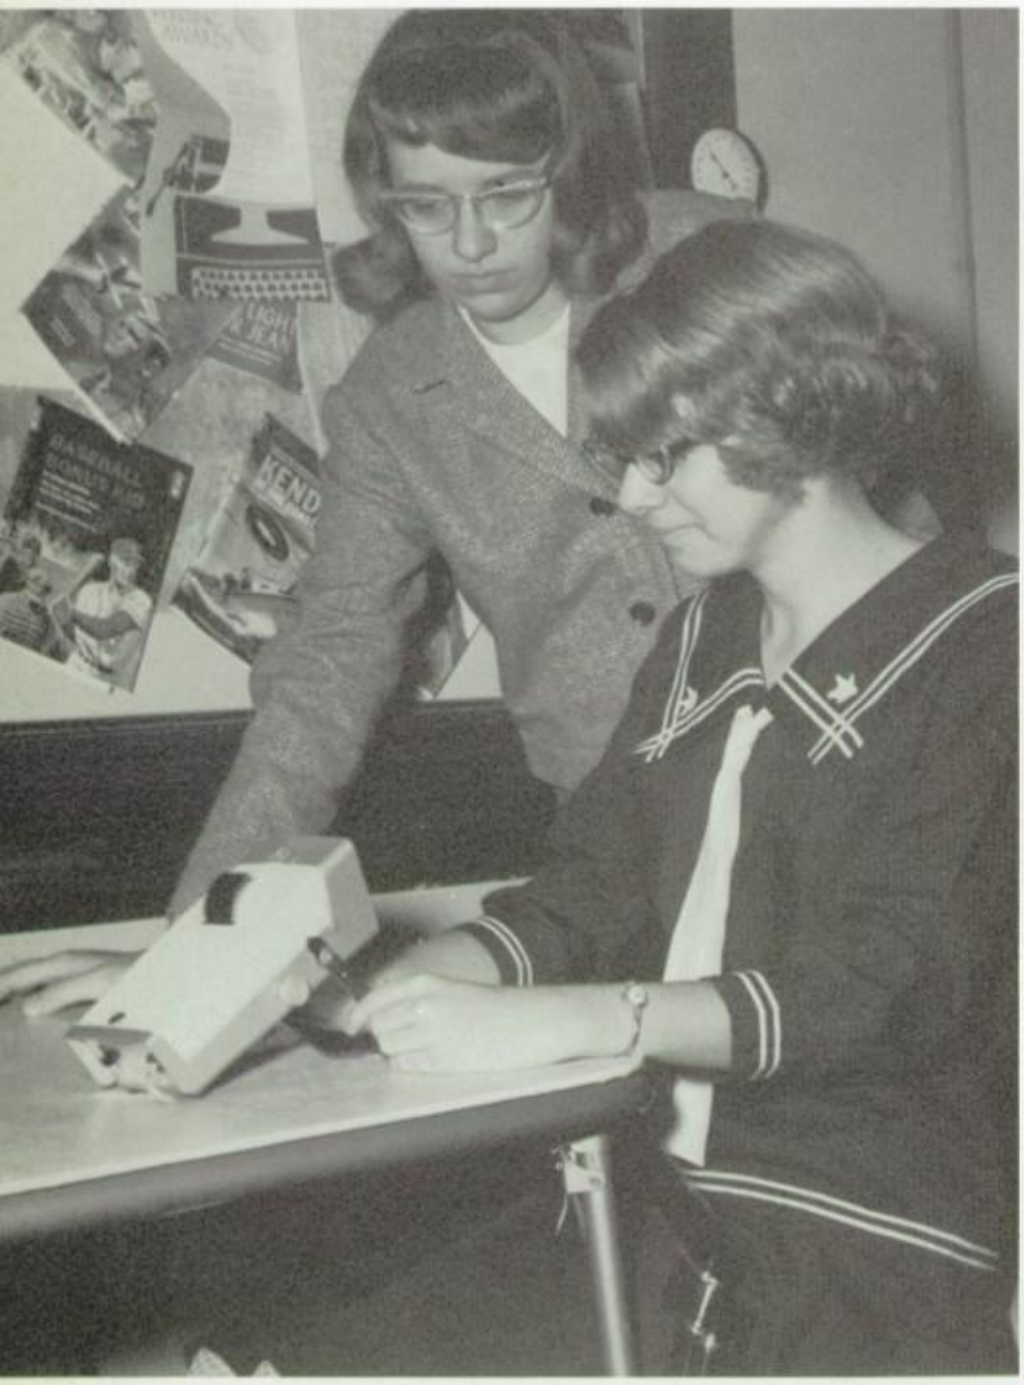
While printing programs for "Oklahoma," Mr. Rankin points out to John Ellingwood important details of the offset press.



Students and faculty receive service with a smile from Mrs. Rogers and Mrs. Snider in the principal's office.

Students broaden

Having advanced to Spanish III, these students find outside reading in Spanish challenging.



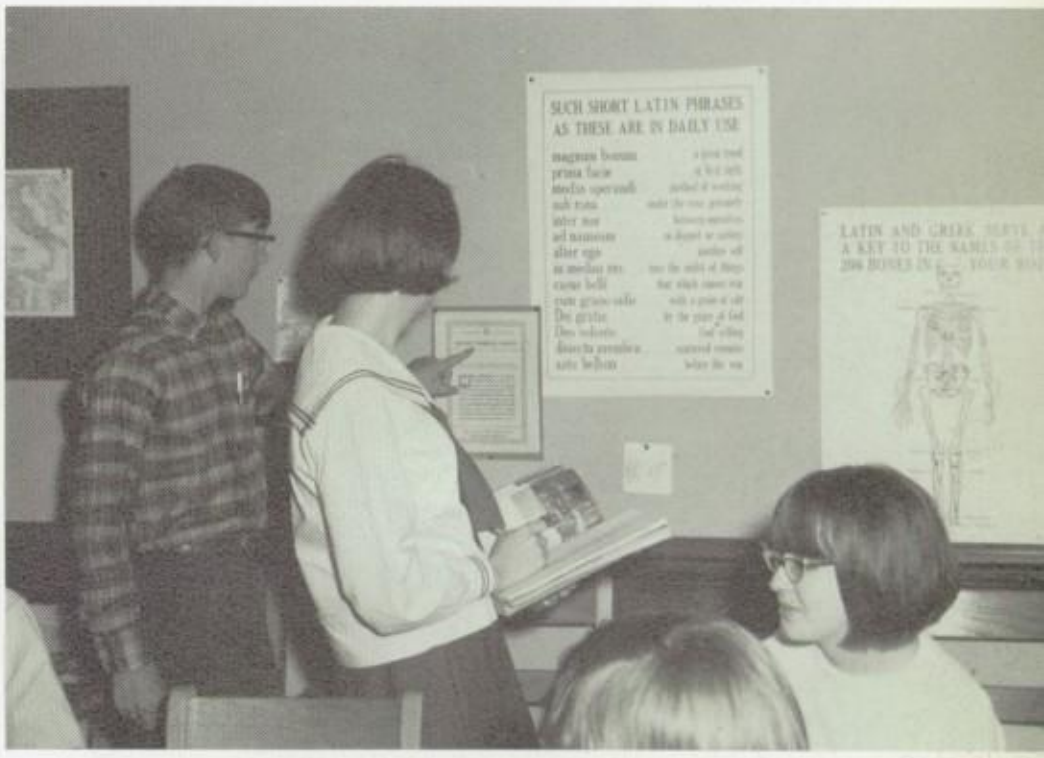
English Composition class students, Debbie Johns and Lavonne Lawson, preview a filmstrip which will serve as their extra-credit project.

Lois Barnes tries to gain the attention of her classmates as she prepares to make a speech.

ability to communicate effectively

A cultural interest as well as a practical one is developed in the foreign language and English classes at P.H.S. While learning to speak Spanish and Latin, the students also learn about the customs and histories of Spain and the Roman Empire. These languages also help the student in English, since many English phrases are derived from other languages. The pupils learn, too, the value of being able to speak and write correctly in English. In the world today, a person must be able to express his thoughts and innermost feelings well. Without this ability to communicate, a person's knowledge is of little benefit to himself or anyone else. Every language a person studies aids him in being a part of the world today.

An important phase of journalistic training is gathering new ideas from surrounding high school newspapers, as Barbara Burchette, Mrs. Klakamp, Mike White, Tonya Propps, and Chester Skinner are doing.



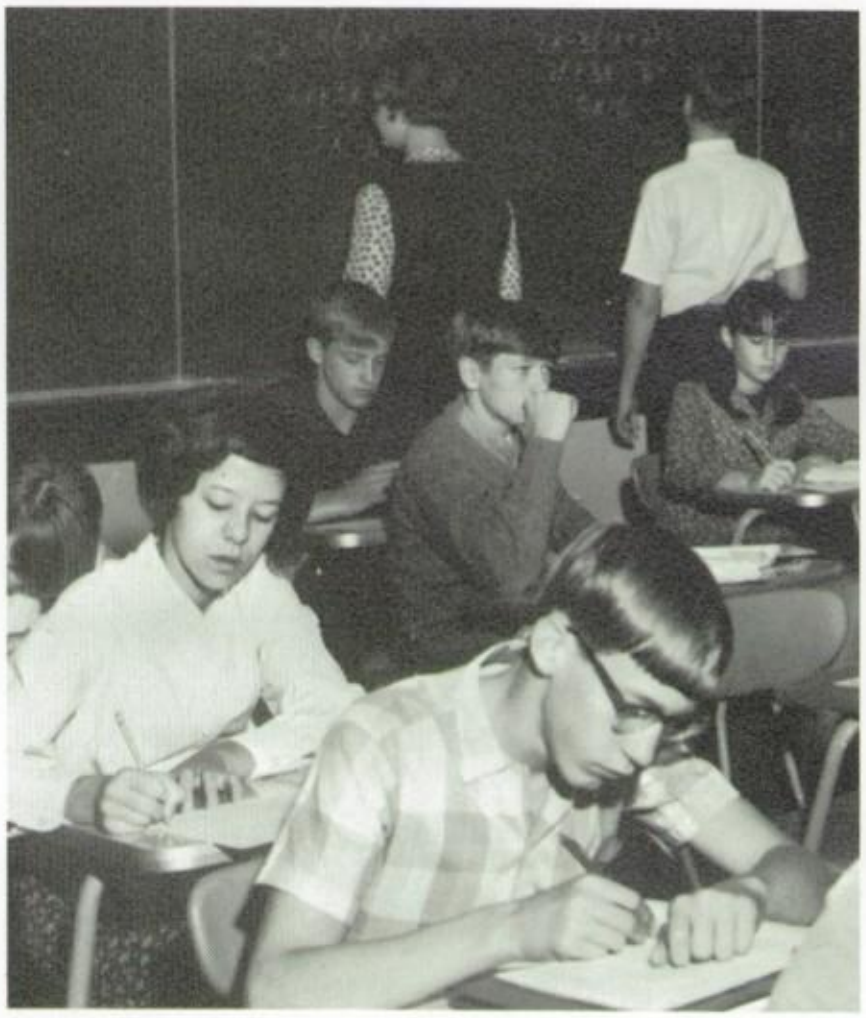
While studying Latin, the students learn the relation between this language and their native tongue.

Mr. Murray's English 10 students group together for mutual assistance for a special assignment.

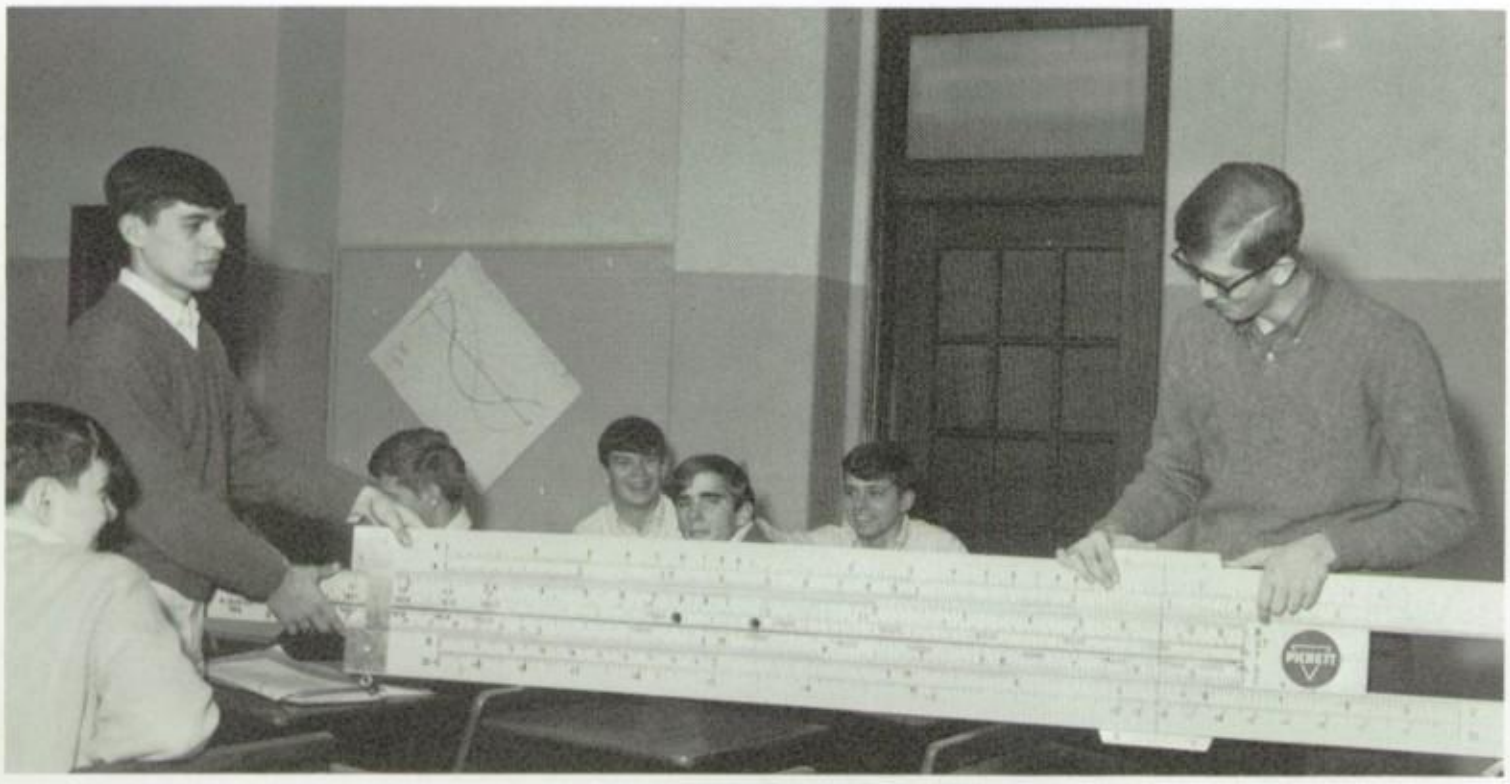
Mr. Torrence explains to Duane McKinney ways to find the area of geometric shapes.

Only through academic achievements and cooperation can a student reap a well-rounded education. With the advanced classes offered to the student body, P.H.S. is setting the pace in both fields of math and science. Math classes offered to a student extend from General Math for those wishing to extend their knowledge of arithmetic to Advanced Senior Math for those wishing to pursue a math career.

Science classes help students understand the basic concepts of matter and life. Since a thorough background in each of these areas is required by colleges and universities today the administration at Pendleton is eager to encourage enrollment in these fields of interest. Mathematics and science aid in building a firm foundation for logical thinking.



Algebra I can be very interesting and exciting for incoming freshmen.

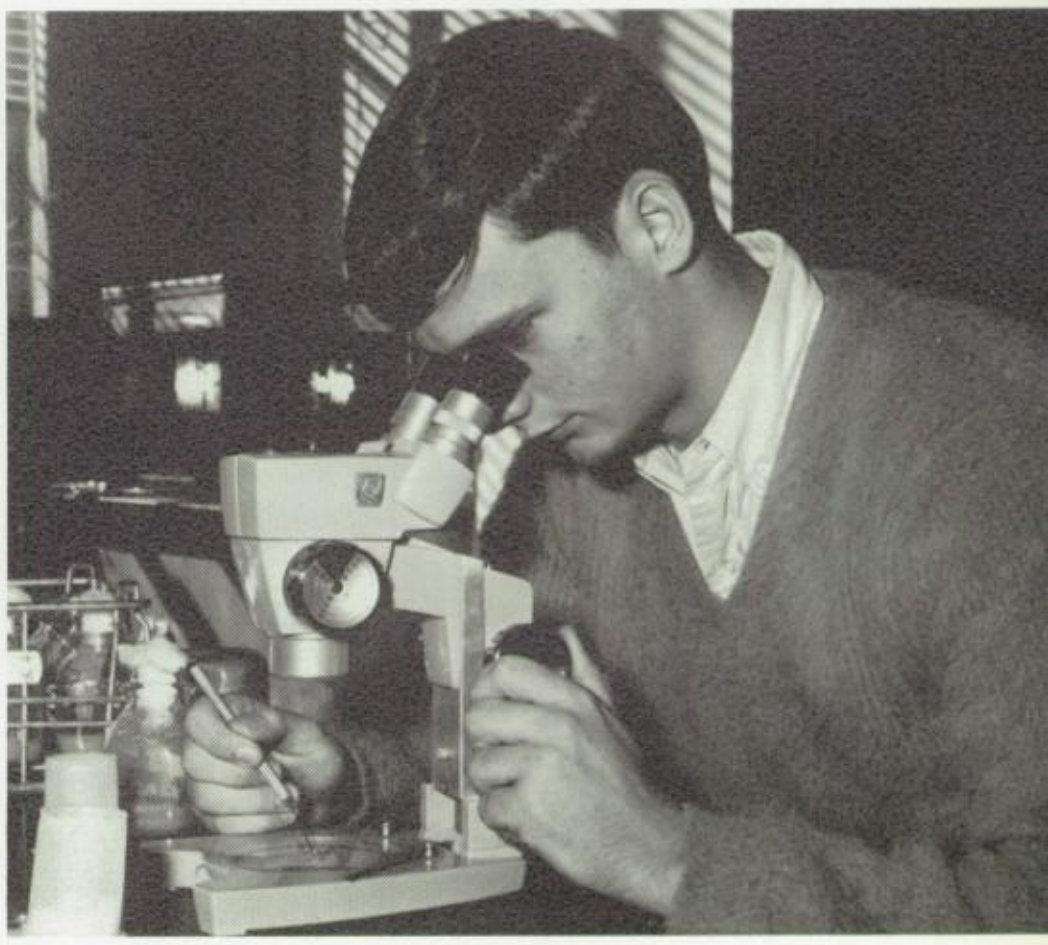


Doug Jarrett and John Jameson show the Trigonometry Class how to master the slide rule.

While mathematics challenges students, Science labs awaken other interests

Setting up equipment for a chemistry experiment proves to be fun for Diana Wynant and Karla Williamson.

Use of an adding machine gives many short cuts to math problems for Dick Rogers.



Use of the microscope to examine fruit flies makes Advanced Biology much more interesting for Rick Castor.

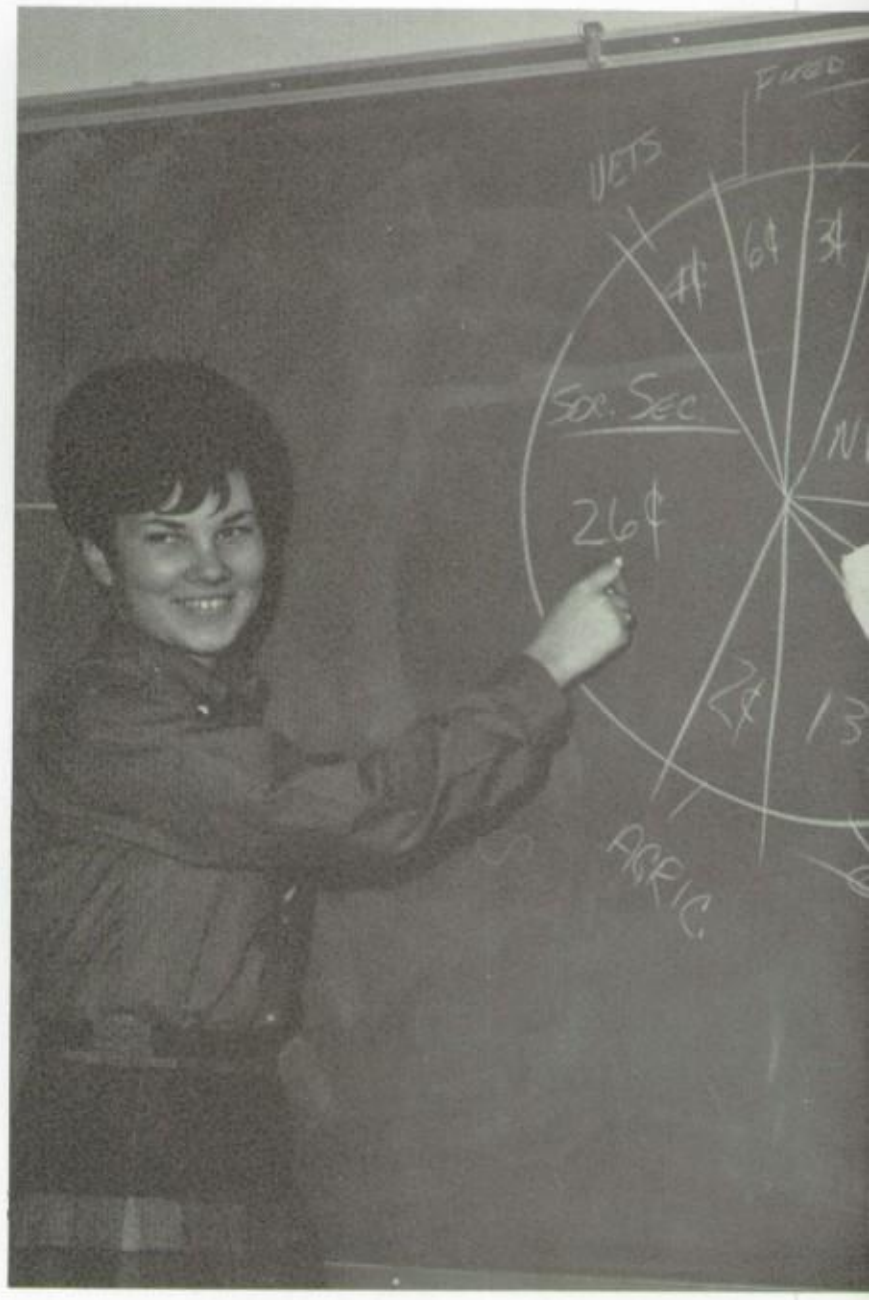
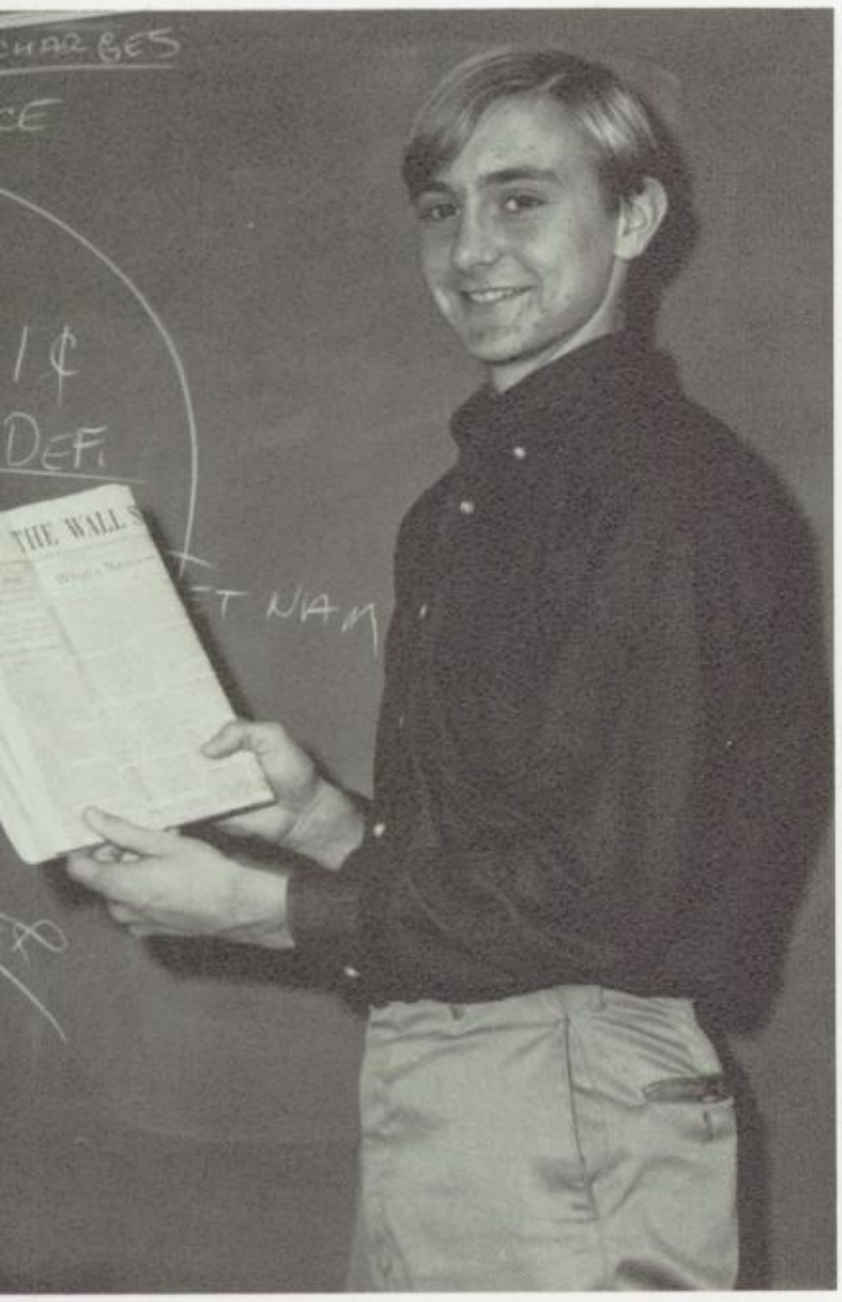
While studying about Civil War heroes, members of the U. S. History classes prepare a bulletin board.



Mr. Custer's students of World History watch eagerly as he pinpoints an area of world interest.

draft headaches create awareness, solutions



Janet Graham and Mark Orewiler explain the U. S. economy to the Economics class.

High school students today must have not only knowledge in the field of natural sciences but a broad background in the social sciences. The beginning of man and the development of civilization comprise the study of World History. As the Vietnam conflict continues, Pendleton High School students are critically studying the events of today in relation to those of past years and in relation to the future.

In World Geography they discover types of land formations and climates of countries of the world. They learn about the inhabitants of these regions and some of their customs.

Lessons in Psychology, Sociology, Government, and Economics present the science and art of human relations, the intricacies of local, state, and federal government, and the responsibilities of a good citizen today.

Results of a government survey are checked by Don Hertzinger, Steve Kiphart, Debbie Johns, Laurinda Rector, Dean Manship, and Janet Graham.

Mrs. Leatherman indicates problem spots of the world to members of the Geography class.

Greg Branch and Tim Hunt enthusiastically demonstrate how to relax by massaging the head.

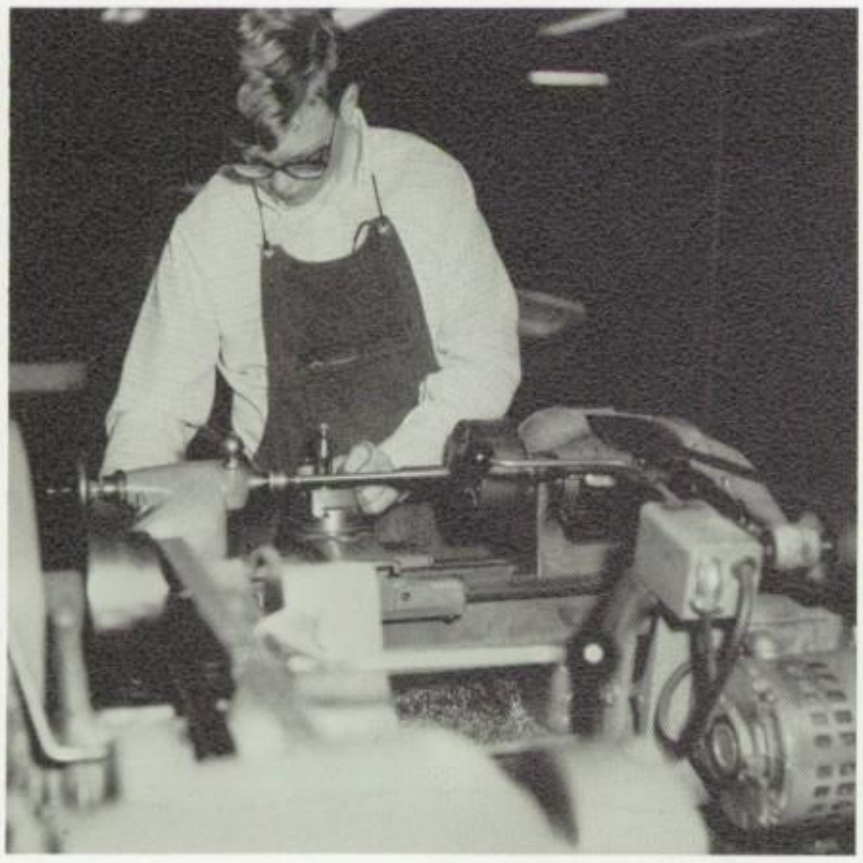
character, careers, and family

Chris Campbell explains the many wonders of the VOM meter to Dennis Cornell and Rex Mollenkopf.



Rod Kiphart demonstrates the proper procedure in making hammers.

Soldering wires is an interesting project for Tom White and Dwight Dunham in Electronics class.

Modern machinery and the latest techniques in vocational courses provide the student with an opportunity to learn basic skills. Knowledge and experience gained in mechanical drawing, drafting, and electronics influence the choice of a career or serve as a basis for further technical training.

Agriculture courses which combine classroom work with practical experience enable students to become not only scientific farmers but business men in areas associated with agriculture. As an integral part of the course, students are required to carry out a productive farm project, which is later integrated into the course of study.

Home Economics includes a study of all phases of home living with the general purpose of encouraging a satisfying personal life in the family and better living in the homes today. Units of study include food preparation, clothing construction, child care, and consumer buying.

Steve Brown is learning how to use his architectural drawing skills for his home of tomorrow.

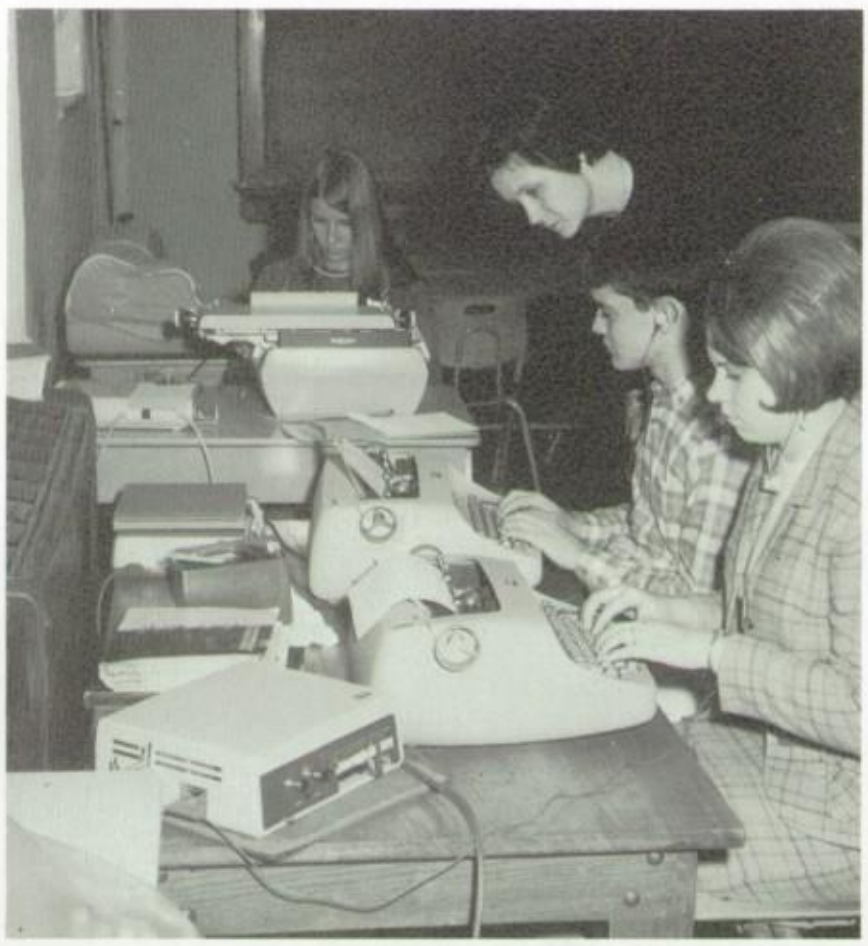
Beth Stohler explains to Daryl Vincent the fundamentals of Bookkeeping.

Mrs. Baldwin shows Marcia Robinson the correct way to work a General Business problem.



Mrs. Wynant watches as Patty Fabian, Jim Clark, and Mary Philbert type from dictation.

skills and talents

Business courses such as Typing, Shorthand, Bookkeeping, Business English, and Office Practice develop skills to enable the business student to meet the everyday problems which occur in an office. High quality work with both speed and accuracy is the goal. College-bound students find shorthand and typing useful in advanced studies.

Students in the art department become familiar with sketching, water color, oil, print making, silk screen, and pottery. A wide variety of materials enables the talented artists to extend their skills by working on outside projects for the school and local organizations.

As Rhonda Davis places her own dish in the kiln, she admires the pottery made by others.

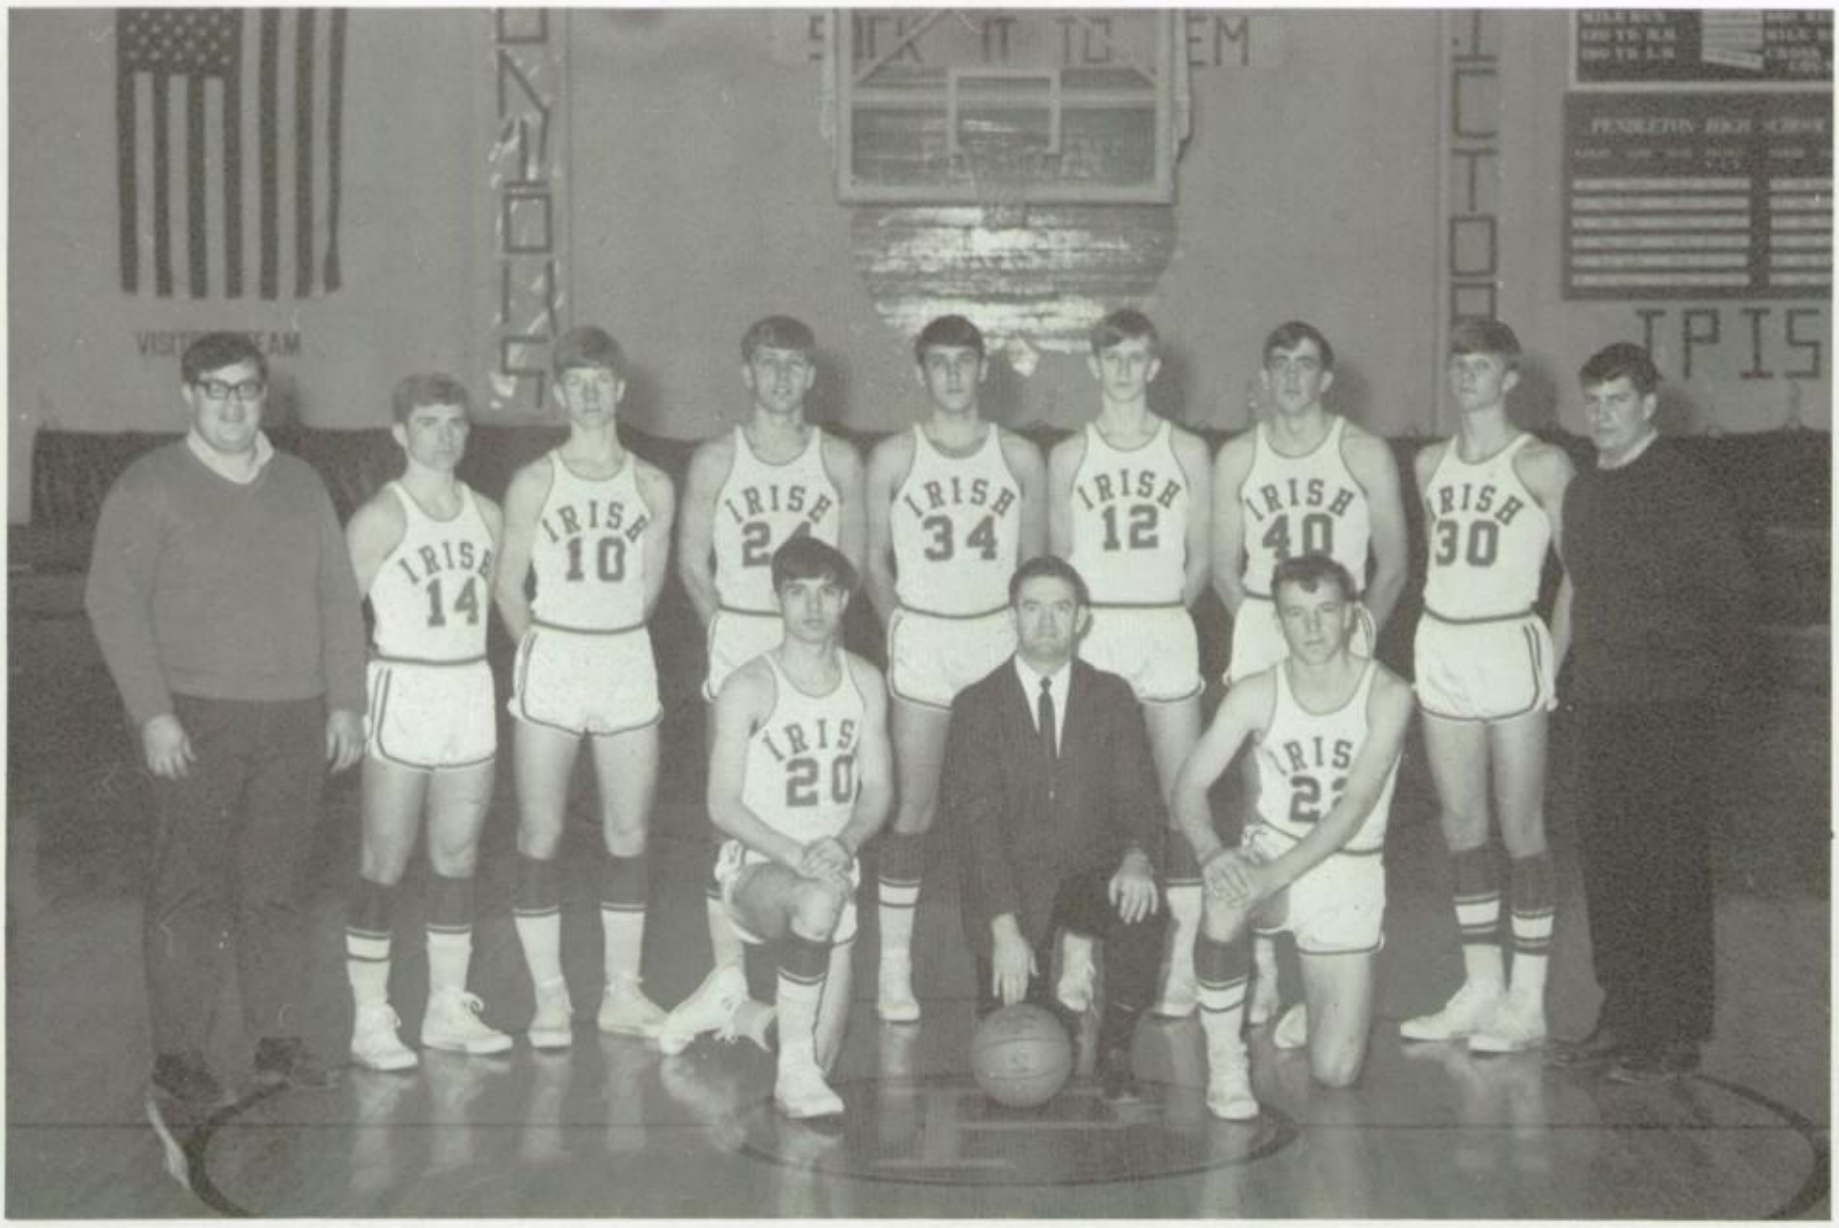
ATHLETICS

We watch and wait in '68

Athletics play a major role in the lives of the students at P.H.S. While the fans wait for the outcome of the events, they experience thrills of expectation, joy, and disappointment. Each year they anticipate a successful season as they watch a baseball knocked into the creek in the ninth, a touchdown with only seconds to go, a pinned wrestler in the heavy-weight, a free throw in the last second of overtime, a hole-in-one on the 18th—these are the moments that are cherished.

Irish have 8th straight winning streak



VARSITY BASKETBALL — KNEELING: J. Jameson, Mr. Floyd, coach, M. Crosley. STANDING: J. Shelton, manager; G. Burke, E. Crosley, J. Markle, R. Ormes, D. Jarrett, B. Mitchell, D. Helton, G. Frampton, manager. (Absent, R. Castor)

The Pendleton High School "Fighting Irish" ended the hard fought 1967-68 basketball season with eleven wins and ten losses. The Irish also had a four win, four loss conference record and placed second in the Pendleton Invitational. This year's Irish was led by six outstanding Seniors; Rick Ormes, Rick Castor, Jim Markle, John Jameson, Eric Crosley, and Doug Jarrett. Pendleton defeated some of the top teams in the area including Summitville, Noblesville, Hamilton Heights, Shenandoah, Markleville, and Madison Heights.

Two Irishmen won very deserving honors; Rick Ormes was selected All County First Team Forward, and Rick Castor All County Honorable Mention. Both boys were named co-captains.

The P.H.S. Reserve Football team compiled a 6-1 record this year for a good season. The hard-rushing offense scored 144 points while the rugged defense gave up only 106 points to opponents. The Irish took five straight games before losing to New Palestine, but finished the season with a 32-26 win over Mt. Vernon at the first home game of their career. The team's biggest victory was a 38-0 win over Hamilton Heights. This year's football team gained much experience to carry them into varsity competition next year. Glen Hazel was leading scorer for the team with 37 points, while Monte Hoover gained the most yards (251) for a 8.1 yard per carry average.

The Irish matmen finished the season with a record of nine wins and four losses for its fourth straight winning season under the leadership of Coach Shelby. The team was aided by assistant coaches Mr. Torrence and Mr. Snyder.

The Irish finished third in the Hagerstown Invitational with three individual champions: Monte Hoover, Randy Cyman and Steve Hodson. Two wrestlers set school records; Randy Cyman now holds the fastest pinning record with a time of 13 seconds, and Monte Hoover set the 120-pound winning record of 14 wins, 0 losses, and 1 tie. This year's team produced nine letter-winners and is losing only three seniors. Tom White and Jeff Humble were this year's captains.

Because of illness and injury this year the Irish fell to a five win and eleven loss conference record. Captain Tom White led the team in hits with fourteen, while Rick Castor was out front with batting a .409 average. The team will lose six senior lettermen, but this season's pitchers Tom Baker and Bob Mitchell will return. The ball club ended the season with victories over Lapel twice, Shenandoah, Summitville, and Highland.

Snapping on his equipment, Rick Ormes is ready for another grueling game.

Fast stepping Irish win conference

The Cross-Country team, under the coaching of Mr. Keithley, ended their season winning 13 of 15 individual meets, placing second in the Daleville Invitational and first in the White River Conference meet. Tom Wilson, Dave Helton, John Jameson and Ed Kinnaman qualified for the all-conference team.

Five of the eleven-letter winners this year were seniors. Tom Wilson, a junior, won the lowest-points-scored award, and John Jameson was senior captain.

Members of the reserve team start in competition on an exhausting run.

ACTIVITIES

We watch and wait in '68

The truly successful student is the one who develops his personality as well as his scholastic ability. He is the one who watches and waits for — the hot crowds and keen competition of Band Day at the State Fair, the excitement of the first Homecoming parade and game, the back-stage butterflies and on-stage beauty of "Oklahoma," the fun of the first pep session, the big snow and the Christmas Dance, the preparation behind the Science Fair, and the thrilling glory of the Prom.

throughout the school and community

Through the combined efforts of its 235 members, the Sunshine Society was again able to sponsor the annual Christmas dance. Donna Staats was crowned queen of this year's "Mod 'n' Merry" event. Several members attended this year's District Convention at Columbus in October. Proceeds from candy sales and the Leap Year Dance enabled a hopeful Senior girl pursuing a nursing career to receive a scholarship. In March, Kathleen Michael was selected to attend Youth Power Conference in Indianapolis. April was a busy month as Sunshiners sponsored a cancer drive and attended the State Convention at Frankfort. The banquet for senior girls in May was highlighted by the announcement of the Sunshine Girl of the Year. The purpose of this organization is to inspire high school girls to higher ideals, to train girls for active citizenship, and to spread sunshine and good cheer.

A service organization, the Tri-Hi-Y extends an invitation of Christian fellowship and good will to girls achieving an average of C or above. This year's projects included a donation of $100 to the Spanish Club to aid in sending a P.H.S. student to South America for summer study, a collection for the March of Dimes, and distribution of fruit baskets to children at the Children's Home in Anderson.

The purpose of the Hi-Y is to create, maintain, and extend throughout the home, school, and community, high standards of Christian character. This year's activities included a trip to the Reformatory, Christmas presents for the teachers, Invitational Tourney dance, Easter Convocation, and the slave sale.

One of the most active organizations is the Student Council. Representing P.H.S., the Council participated in new student orientation and visited other schools. Active members made preparations for the new school by revising the handbook and sponsoring the "Name the new school contest." Some activities of the Student Council were decorating the school at Christmas, conducting locker inspections, and showing special movies.

Quill and Scroll honorary is a national organization for students who have done outstanding work on a school publication. This year ten new members were inducted on April 18th. The annual dinner followed on April 30th.

In November, National Honor Society inducted twenty-four proud members. The key words of the organization—citizenship, scholarship, leadership, and service—tell the qualities for which members are chosen. In March National Honor Society sponsored a film and bake sale to earn money to award a scholarship.

National Forensic League is composed of students interested in speech. The principal activity is participation in speech tourneys. Several members won high awards this year for their performances. The club also sold candy canes and valentines and sponsored a psychedelic dance.

Each year several happy Seniors learn that their diligent studying has helped them become members of the top ten percent of their class. Sixteen seniors were honored at the April 25th banquet of the Pendleton Chamber of Commerce held in the multi-purpose room.

After the Roman slaves are purchased at auction, they are required to perform many tasks, one of which is feeding their master.

As a part of exploring the ancient Roman culture, Latin Club members celebrate many Roman holidays throughout the year. At Christmastime the Club enjoyed a "Saturnalia" Party, which is closely related to Christmas Day. During the month of March, the members attend the Roman Banquet to commemorate the "Ides of March" and Ceasar's death. "Roman Funerals" was the selected theme of this year's banquet.

Members of the Spanish Club are aided in their efforts to gain further insight and appreciation of the Spanish culture, language, and the people themselves. This year the club helped sponsor a course of summer study in Mexico for three deserving Pendleton High School students. Among the Club's other activities was the highly successful "Newlywed Game," the first of its kind in our school. The Spanish Fiesta highlighted the year for the organization.

In order to promote and encourage interested students desiring a career in the medical field, the Caduceus Club was organized. The club sponsored a dance and a movie to obtain funds for a scholarship to a senior member. Other activities included a weiner roast, an ice-skating party, lectures, and a field trip to Eli Lilly.

The purpose of the Science Club is to create and promote an interest in science at Pendleton High School and in the surrounding community. Field trips, speakers, films, and special projects make up the activities of the club. In March the local science fair was held.

Audio-Visual Club's main purpose is to promote an interest in art, audio visuals, and photography. The organization provides enjoyment and good fellowship for everyone associated with the club.

The purpose of the newly-organized Future Teachers of America is to inspire and interest any high school student in a career of teaching.

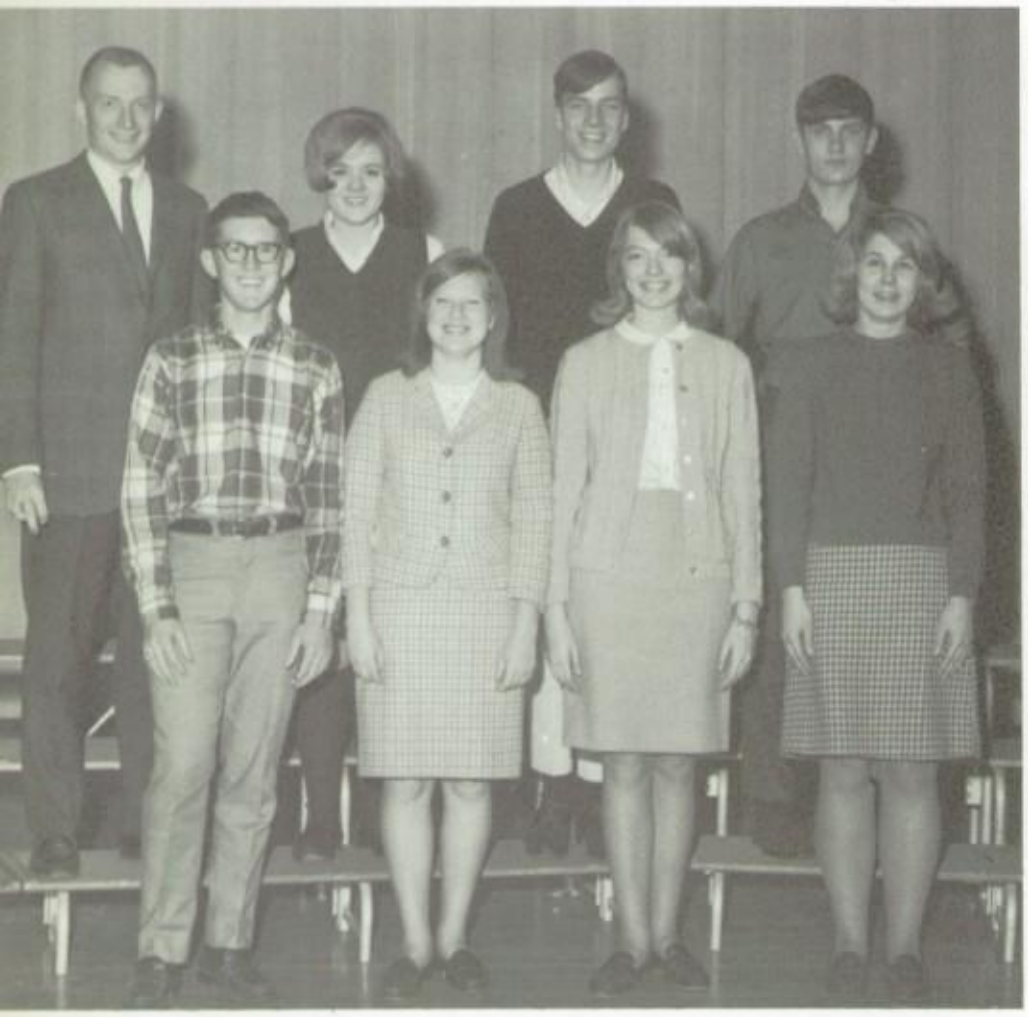
Eager students learn



The purpose of the Junior Historical Society is to make the study of history more interesting by various projects and activities not possible in the classroom.

Members of the Student Librarians Association explore the purposes, functions, and organization of the library. This club is an affiliate of the Hoosier Student Librarians Association, and membership is open to any student interested in activities of the library. Members participated in a field trip to Anderson College, a Christmas party, and a spring cook-out.

Nine girls spent part of their day preparing for the profession of teaching. Exploratory teaching offers seniors a chance to observe classroom procedures in the lower grades and to participate in teaching. Their main project this year was organizing a Future Teachers of America Club at Pendleton High School.

Student librarians learn the functions of the library and perform helpful services for students assigned reference work.

The Future Farmers of America is an organization for boys enrolled in vocational agriculture. Members are interested in the many areas of agriculture and farming. Their activities include taking educational trips and competing with other schools in judging contests and grain shows.

Agriculture and homemaking are the two major areas of interest that the members of the 4-H Club explore. Those who enjoy caring for livestock can be found showing their well-bred animals and receiving top honors at fairs. Members develop skills and experience as well as showmanship. The healthy competition and atmosphere of the organization is provided by the sponsors and the students themselves.

The production of the Broadway musical "Oklahoma" opened the year for the Concert Choir members. Hidden talents of the performers became apparent to all when a portion of the musical was televised on Betty Field's "Roads to Learning" program. Later the Choral Department presented the traditional Christmas concert which featured all three choral groups. Other performances of the choir included a program at the Veterans' Hospital at Marion and their own "Melodies in May" concert. The choir ended their year with an honor dinner.

In February the Pendletones presented "An Evening With the Pendletones" featuring past and present members in solo spots. The Pendletones also entertained at private club meetings, at the Veterans' Hospital, and in the "Melodies in May" Concert.

The "Singing Irishmen" and the "Irishmen's Ladies" were combined this year into a mixed chorus. They were featured in their own concert in May. All three choral groups performed at the County Choral Festival and the State Choral Festival.

Instrumentalists have busy year

The Band started their marching season by participating in the State Fair Contest, the United Fund Parade, and the Homecoming game. With the coming of basketball season, the Band and the sparkling Irishettes presented a new and different show for each home ballgame, and in the spring they showed their talents in the biennial production of the Variety Show. The Band closed the year with a concert at commencement.

Among the many musical groups at Pendleton High, the Dance Band continues to gain honors and recognition as one of the very best. Their talents are displayed at various events in the school and community. This year the Band took part in the Variety Show and competed in the State Solo and Ensemble Contest at Ball State University. Under the direction of Mr. Eichhorn, the Band also revealed their musical showmanship at the Teachers' Christmas Party.

The Pendleton High School Lettermen's Club was started last year to give the boys who have earned a varsity letter in athletics better relationships among themselves and their classmates. The purpose of the club is to promote school spirit and school sportsmanship and to arouse an interest in all school activities. Any student who is in good standing and has earned a varsity letter in any sport is eligible for membership.

The Girls' Athletic Association cites as its purpose stimulating participation in athletics and promoting ideals of good health and sportsmanship. Awards are presented to the girls for active participation. Any girl in high school wishing to gain experience in sports activities as well as to enjoy the fellowship of her friends is welcome to join. Activities include softball, basketball, volleyball, bowling, swimming, golf, and track and field.

Enthusiastic spirit urges Irish to victory

The cheerblock displayed full Irish spirit by sporting their new green outfits this year. In addition to backing the basketball team, the group reorganized a boys' block and elected a new mascot. The cheering section, under the directions of Mrs. Wynant and Mrs. Leatherman, has been open to any girl or boy who has enough enthusiasm and Irish spirit to support the Irish team.

Leadership is a quality found in our P.H.S. cheerleaders. The fans are led through the game in enthusiastic cheers for the Figntin' Irish, and when luck is running low the cheerleaders' sportsmanship and energy are enough to spark the crowd and the team on to victory.

Our Irish mascot shows confidence and enthusiasm as our teams romp to victory. His position as the chosen symbol of the Irish is honored and envied by all P.H.S. fans.

The coverage and combining of all the major events and happenings throughout the year is not an easy task. Responsible for filling this demanding position is the Papyrus Staff. Much work is involved in the preparation of the Pendleton High School annual—the Papyrus. The annual has been, and continues to be, one of the very best in its summarization of the most memorable moments of the year.

The newspaper staff, a non-profit organization, publishes "The Shamrock" every two weeks. "The Shamrock" was founded in September, 1964, and replaced "The Pen." Janet Graham edited this year's paper with the help of Mrs. Klakamp and a twelve-member staff.

Caring for the costly equipment in the Audio-Visual Department is the responsibility of the A.V. Aides. These students are those who show interest in and knowledge of the care and handling of the many visual aids. They also are responsible for setting up the equipment for the teachers who request the use of the materials.

To help reduce the load of work which falls on the Principal's secretaries, several students are appointed to work in the office each hour. The office secretaries are of great assistance during the hectic school day, helping complete attendance records and running errands for the faculty.

Juniors perform "Stranger In The Night"

As Patty Roller schemed to herself, Terry Klepfer eyes Mike Nevins as a specimen for her wrestling class.

Testing their dramatic skills, an enthusiastic cast of twelve Juniors practiced earnestly under the direction of Miss Brown, director, and Jackie Mellinger, student director. Countless evenings of diligent preparation went into their production of "Stranger in the Night." The setting of this mystery-comedy took place in a small gift shop managed by two young ladies, Sylvia Lee and Mable Crane. Kathleen Michael played the part of the sophisticated and reserved Sylvia; Leslie Haner was the ambitious, romantic Mable. The play combined amusing moments with mounting suspense as it unveiled a scheme for murder.

Dramatic seniors present "Antigone"

Chris Campbell, Julie Polus, Gerald Miller, Diana Wynant.

On October 13 the Senior Class presented the Greek drama, "Antigone." The story evolved after the death of Antigone's two brothers in a civil war. Creon, the King, played by Jeff Shelton, ordered that one of the brothers be left unburied, carrion for the vultures, while the other brother was buried with honors. Anyone who attempted to bury the first brother was to be put to death. Antigone, played by Christy Campbell, defied this edict of her Uncle Creon and threw dirt upon the dishonored corpse. The climax came when Antigone was buried alive for her punishment. Her death set off a chain of suicides. The cast, under the direction of Mrs. Webb, received their biggest thrill when a portion of the play was televised on the Betty Field's "Roads to Learning" show.

One of the most important queens of this year was the homecoming queen. On October 30, P.H.S. held their homecoming at the first home football game at Madison Heights' football field. Freshman, sophomore, and junior football players selected the candidate from their class. The senior candidate was chosen by the senior boys on the cross-country team. At the game each candidate was given a beautiful corsage. During half-time the fans viewed the candidates as each rode by in a new convertible driven by an Irish letterman. Each girl was escorted by the president of her class.

"Mod and Merry" dance fun for all

Candidates for queen of the "Mod and Merry" dance were Robin Carey, Lana Burke, Donna Staats, and Cheryl Brattain.

Carol Fulk and Rex Tracy enjoy a bit of private conversation as they admire the Christmas decorations.

Kathy Miller and Rod Carr experience a light moment as Mary Ann Pickett and Mike Eakes look on.

symbolize beauty, charm, and elegance

This year one sophomore and three seniors were selected as candidates for Yearbook Queen. Classes chose their candidates in accordance with the percentage of annuals sold to each class. The entire school voted to select Donna Staats as the 1968 Yearbook Queen.

The Tri-Hi-Y Girl of the Year is chosen on the basis of her service to the club. Club members chose Robin Carey to receive the award.

Connie Bodenhorn was selected as Sunshine Girl-of-the-Year. This honor is bestowed upon the senior girl who has accumulated the highest number of points during her four years in Sunshine.

The Junior-Senior Prom was held in the Pittenger Student Center at Ball State University on May 11. Upon entering the ballroom, the radiant couples passed through an archway bedecked with roses. "Shower of Stars," the magical theme chosen for the year's most gala event, was evident through the entire evening of stardust and dancing.

Following the elegance and beauty of the formal dance, the scene moved below to the modern recreation areas where bowling and pool set the pace. In psychedelic style everyone danced to the great sound of the Chosen Few. Breakfast was served in Pendleton to revive spirits for the next day's activities.

The Junior-Senior Banquet was held one week preceding the Prom itself. Class officers were acknowledged and credited for their efforts in leading their class throughout the year.

ALBUM

We watch and wait in '68

Friendships have always been a part of daily lives. From the comradeship of grade school chums to the on-again off-again junior high cliques, through the jokes of high school pals, P.H.S. students have watched themselves and their friends mature. Childhood companionships have been nourished until they have grown to be valuable friendships, while some of the intimacies of junior high have become mere acquaintances. Although they cherish their oldest friends, those they have made during this year mean just as much to them.

"The world will step aside for any man if he knows where he is going."

ADVERTISING

We watch and wait in '68

Pendleton citizens have noted with pride the growth of their town and school this year. New structures and businesses have improved the appearance of the district—a drive-in bank, an interesting front on a dry cleaning establishment, a remodeled post office, a new barber shop, a modern men's store, a bright entrance to Falls Park, an addition to the coin laundry, another automatic car wash, a new Methodist Church building. All are progressive changes in a forward-looking town which is interested in its citizens.

We say that because two out of three people would have flipped this page without ever trying to get through the maze. But you didn't. And that's a good indication of the kind of career you might enjoy.

Scientists, for instance, are the kind of people who thrive on challenge. That's what leads them to science courses in school. And draws them into a lifetime of problem-solving in a scientific career.

Take our scientists. They keep seeing a better way to design ignition systems—and they do it. They never stop looking for further improvements in our generators. Without their curiosity and appetite for challenge, we could never have designed our silver zinc batteries for missiles.

And without students like you, we won't be able to meet the fantastic challenges of the future.

So, if science interests you, dig in now. Tomorrow not only needs you—it needs you to be good.

Here at Delco-Remy, we're definitely a part of tomorrow.

So we'll be looking for you. Right after college.

CORNELL BRIGHT FUNERAL HOME

211 State Street
Pendleton Indiana

Our standing invitation to visit our premises is based on a sincere desire to clarify any misunderstanding the public may have about the operation of a funeral home. Frankly, there is nothing mysterious about us, and indeed some of our visitors have been a bit let down by the difference between what they actually saw as fact and what fiction had led them to expect. We render a necessary professional service in a dignified atmosphere.

WE WATCH AND WAIT IN 1968

Acknowledgments

It is said that time waits for no man. This was again found only too true as the 1967-1968 school year swiftly rolled away. P.H.S. students saw work begin on the new South Madison Community High School. They stood in tedious lines to attend long anticipated events. Now this year has ended, and all that is left are the memories.

One year ago, work was begun on a book designed to refresh those memories in years to come. Hundreds of photographs were taken by Reid's Studio of Muncie and by Indiana School Studios, Indianapolis, Indiana, in order that P.H.S. school life might be pictorially represented. With the end of the year, has come the end of the book. That book is the 1968 PAPYRUS published by Paragon Press, Montgomery, Alabama.

In future years, as P.H.S. alumni leaf through this book they will reminisce and recall that truly we did "WATCH AND WAIT IN '68."
